

Yank Forces Move Swiftly On Okinawa; Expect Battle

By MURLIN SPENCER
Guam, April 4 (AP) — Twin American drives moved swiftly southward toward Naha, capital of Okinawa today, and possibly the first major resistance by the Japanese defenders since the Yanks landed four days ago.

Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent aboard Admiral Turner's flagship off Okinawa, said air observers reported occasional bursts of Japanese fire as well as signs of an elaborate trench system bustling with activity across the southern end of the island near Naha.

He wrote the possible defense line ran north of Manchinto airstrip, five miles north of Naha and Tona-baru strip, six miles east of the capital.

Although the Yanks believe the Japanese fight still is to be faced, Lieut. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., commander of the 10th Army, said "The crucial period of landing men and supplies is over x x x even without opposition an operation this complicated could have broken down."

"We're Out of the Woods"

Another Associated Press correspondent, James Lindsey, in the field on Okinawa with the Marine Third Amphibious Corps, quoted Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, Leatherneck commander, as saying the Okinawa operation developed so rapidly that a complete change of plans had to be made.

"We are out of the woods now," the general said.

Naha, largest city in the Ryukyu chain with a population of 66,000, was only six miles from forward elements of the 7th Infantry Division moving down the west coast. Naha airdrome is the best in the archipelago.

Swift, Fluid Advance

The advance was so swift and the situation so fluid that headquarters officers were unable to plot positions accurately on their maps. Scores of little towns were overrun in yesterday's sweeping advances all along the line, announced today by Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz. The Yanks have overrun some 40 square miles.

A strong force of Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger's Marines drove another wedge across the strategic island, 325 miles south of Japan itself, by reaching the east coast at the Katchin peninsula, which was cut off.

Meanwhile, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Division doughboys, who first bisected the island on Monday, moved eight miles down the shores of Nakagusuku Bay—one-time Japanese fleet anchorage—to Kuba town.

New Invasion Puts Yanks Near Borneo

Manila, April 4 (AP)—Borneo and its great petroleum and rubber resources lay only 30 miles south of jungle-wise veterans of the American Eighth Army today. They won strategic control of the Japanese naval base of Tawitawi at the southern tip of the Sulu archipelago with hardly a fight Monday.

Elements of Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe's 41st "Sunset" Division aided by guerrillas, also captured two airfields on Sangasanga island and took possession of neighboring Bongao island with virtually no opposition, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

Warships of the Seventh Fleet, boldly coursing through waters which once provided the Japanese with a major fleet anchorage and refueling depot, laid down a heavy bombardment prior to the landing while navy planes provided close support to the landing force.

The daring thrust carried invading doughboys 200 miles southwest of Mindanao. General MacArthur said the strike "seriously jeopardized the enemy's main position in the Sulu archipelago at Jolo."

American losses were reported as small.

Doe's infantrymen, veterans of Blak, Wake, New Guinea and the rapid-fire Zamboanga campaign, lost no time in taking possession of the Sangasanga airfields. One runway was 4,000 feet long, suitable for fighter planes and transports.

Judge Knouse Has Filed His Papers

Associate Judge A. Dale Knouse, today filed his judicial nominating petition with the state Elections bureau in Harrisburg. He is seeking re-election to the post and is the only announced candidate for the position to date. He is a Republican.

Also filed today was the petition of Edmund C. Wingerd, Republican, for the position of judge of the common pleas court of Franklin county. Wingerd is running in opposition to State Senator Paul C. Crider, who also seeks the Republican nomination.

PRICE THREE CENTS

Allies Sweep On Along West Front

2 FOOD STORES PENALIZED FOR ILLEGAL SALES

Two South Washington street food store proprietors, charged with selling food over OPA ceiling prices, were ordered to make cash settlements with the United States treasury within 48 hours after hearings which were held in the local War Price and Rationing board office in the Hotel Eberhart.

Allen Leist, proprietor of Leist's meat market, 270 South Washington street, must make a $50 cash "settlement" and Mrs. William E. Knox, proprietor of Knox's food market, 344 South Washington street must pay $25.

The hearings Tuesday afternoon were conducted by the local price panel of the rationing board and were the first of their kind ever conducted here. The price panel also imposed the penalties.

Both Were Warned

Both business places were described as "habitual offenders" and information presented at the hearings showed that both places had been found to be selling food above OPA ceiling prices on numerous OPA surveys conducted in the last year. An office spokesman said that official warnings were sent to both stores after the survey findings were reported. Succeeding surveys uncovered continued above-ceiling sales, ration board records showed.

At the Leist store illegal meat sales ranged from two to 13 cents above ceilings while the violations at the Knox store included sales of fresh fruits and vegetables and processed foods. Onions, bananas, corn niblets and bacon were sold "above ceiling" the panel learned.

Questions were asked and the decisions were reached by the local price panel with its chairman, A. J. Carbaugh, in charge. The other members are Mrs. Hope Morgan, Miss Alice Black, Mrs. R. Z. Oyler and Allen Walker. A price specialist and a representative of the enforcement division of the OPA district office at Harrisburg attended the hearing.

Candidates File Primary Papers

Three petitions were filed today with the county board of elections by countyans who seek positions on the primary ballots in the July 19 election.

Reid C. Eppelman, 106 West King street, Littlestown, filed for a place on the Republican ticket for the post of borough tax collector in Littlestown.

Edward J. Sneeringer, 213 Linden avenue, Hanover, was seeking a position on the Democratic ballot for assessor in Conowing township, and E. H. Myers, of Idaville, filed for a place on the Republican ballot for justice of the peace in Huntington township. Sneeringer's address was listed as being in Adams county.

Army Nurse To Attend Capping

Capt. MayBelle Ridinger, of the Army Nurse Corps, who is spending a 15-day leave in Gettysburg, will attend the exercises Thursday evening at which 14 members of the Red Cross Nurses' Aide class will be capped at the court house at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, chairman of the county chapter of the Red Cross, will cap the aides, and Judge W. C. Sheely, chairman of the county council of defense, will induct them into the Adams county Civilian Defense organization.

The public is invited to attend.

Birth Announcements

The Rev. and Mrs. Clark S. Smith, York, announce the birth of a daughter, Margaret Cornelia, at the York hospital Tuesday. Mrs. Smith is the former Miss Margaret Jones, daughter of M. C. Jones, Hanover.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coshun, Barlow street, announce the birth of a daughter at the Warner hospital Tuesday evening.

FRACTURES HEALS

Harlan W. Sowers, York Springs, has been discharged from the Carlisle hospital where he was admitted last Friday for treatment to fractures of both heels suffered when he fell 16 feet from a ladder at his home.

MANAGES MARKET

Roy Shabrook, a brother of Ivan Shabrook, is managing the Ivan Shabrook meat market on York street. The manager is not Francis Shabrook as was stated incorrectly last week.

Lt. "Reds" Epley Undergoes Operation

Lt. Clarence W. "Reds" Epley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Epley, Chambersburg street, is improving following an operation performed on his shoulders and arms in an army hospital in England on Monday, March 26, his parents have been notified by the War department.

Lieutenant Epley was wounded February 9 on the Third Army front in Germany. He was badly injured when an anti-personnel mine was accidentally set off near him as his engineer unit completed an assignment of clearing land mines from the path of advancing Yankee infantry.

"E" BOND QUOTA FOR 7TH DRIVE IS $1,460,000

The Seventh War Loan quota for individual bond buyers in Adams county is $1,460,000. It was announced today by Edmund W. Thomas, Adams county War Finance committee chairman.

That figure, he explained, does not include the quota for all other non-banking sources.

The quota for E bonds is $700,000 which is approximately 55 per cent higher than the E bond quota in the last drive, the chairman added.

His statement in connection with the announcement of the quota for individual purchases during the forthcoming drive follows:

Chairman's Statement

"Emphasis on individual sales will be maintained throughout the entire campaign, April 9 to July 7. An intensive drive for extra purchases in the payroll savings market starts April 9 and it is expected that their share of our quota will be almost achieved by cash purchases or pledges of extra deductions by May 14, when the intensified community drive will begin.

"Just as each soldier is expected to do more than his share, we must do more than our share to maintain the home front not only against inflation, but in support of our boys. I know that the citizens of Adams county, whose sons have brought honor to our community will respond even more liberally than before.

"Victory on the fighting fronts seems very near at times, but the thinking citizens of our community realize we still have a long, hard way to go. I call upon every patriotic member of our community to buy more war bonds, and to give their neighbors the opportunity to do likewise."

The state quota for individuals is $506,000,000 of which $288,000,000 in E bonds must be sold.

Held For Court After Hearing

George Kondrat, York Springs R. 2, was released under $300 bond for court following a hearing before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore Tuesday night on a charge of surety of the peace.

Kondrat was charged by Harry E. Trostle, also of York Springs R. 2, with making threats against him. Edward Asper, of York Springs R. D., appeared at the hearing as a witness for Trostle.

"CERTIFICATE OF HONOR" IS GIVEN LOCAL CHAPTER

The local chapter office of the American Red Cross today received a "Certificate of Honor" awarded "for distinguished achievement in the 1945 War Fund" as the campaign reached a total of $32,577.20 or more than $4,500 over the $28,000 goal.

Contributions continued to come in and officials expressed the opinion that the county will have subscribed a total of $34,000 by the time all reports have been received.

A similar certificate of honor was received by Henry M. Scharf, general campaign director for the county, as the most successful war fund drive in the local chapter's history was drawing to a close.

News Contributors

Among the larger contributions recorded today was one of $50 from Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Willis, of Fairfield. Gifts of $25 each were listed from the Orrtanna Canning company, the Sunday school of St. John's Reformed church at New Chester, Fairfield Shoe company, and the Friendship Circle class of the Pines Lutheran church gave $20.

When the troops headed off for the European front, they saw motion pictures, heard lectures, read pamphlets by the sackful explaining the Nazi, his ideals of conquest and how he fought. The Japanese were mentioned more or less incidentally.

Now the army must educate those soldiers going directly from Europe to the Pacific to aim their hate at a new enemy. Furthermore, it must keep their spirits up for weeks or perhaps months until they can be moved to the Pacific area.

LOCAL RAILROAD HISTORY TRACED BY C. W. MYERS

A discussion of the history of the old railroad companies which operated from Hanover Junction to Highfield was given by Charles W. Myers, local freight agent for the Western Maryland railroad which now incorporates those lines, at the regular monthly meeting of the Adams county historical society held Monday evening at the court house.

Mr. Myers, who is the oldest agent in service on the Western Maryland lines, also described numerous incidents in connection with the early history of the railroad and Gettysburg.

During the business meeting a number of gifts to the society were announced. The items included:

A brick from the porch of the home in which Francis Scott Key was born. The brick was given by Dr. L. B. Beagle. The brick was of significance to the society because Key was a member of the Adams county bar.

A large photograph showing President William Howard Taft with a party at Devil's Den. The picture was presented by Mrs. Robert Wible who also gave a copy of the 1880 history of Adams county boroughs with a list of borough officials at that time.

A chair from the home of John Troxell, Sr., who built the first house in Gettysburg. Dr. Henry Stewart, society president, gave the chair.

A copy of a recent issue of the "Cigar Makers' Journal," containing an article on early cigar makers in Adams county, was presented by Philip Wagaman.

Serious Morale Problem Seen During Shift Of Men To Pacific After V-E Day

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The army is counting on a movie to tell the G.I.'s finished with fighting in Europe why the battle isn't over—why many of them must still shoot it out with the Japanese.

Patton Breaks Through; Allies Pushing To North Sea; Near Czech Border

By JAMES M. LONG

Paris, April 4 (AP)—Allied armies reached the Weser and Ems rivers today, pouring through bedraggled German lines within 48 miles of the North sea and 38 of the great Prussian stronghold of Hannover.

In the center, the Third Army burst into the rolling Thuringian plain in the heart of Germany and the battleground of middle Europe, 140 miles from Berlin and 58 from Czechoslovakia.

The French First Army captured Karlsruhe, capital of Baden and a major industrial and traffic center of 189,000 six miles east of the Rhine. It was heavily fortified and once a pivot of the Siegfried line.

The American Seventh Army, flanking the Black forest, fought to within 34 miles of Nuernberg and into the heart of Wuerzburg, Bavarian capital of Lower Franconia.

The cities of Muenster, Osnabrueck, Fulda, Aschaffenburg, Siegen and Bruchsal were captured. Kassel, Wuerzburg, Gotha, Hamm, Wuerzbach, Engelo and Zutphen were stormed and falling. All North sea ports and naval bases were menaced.

Compress Nazi Pockets

The British Second Army, strong in armor, was racing toward the North sea so swiftly that Field Marshal Montgomery again imposed a partial security blackout, to confuse 90,000 or less Germans he hopes to trap in Holland. The Canadians directly menaced Arnheim and moved within less than 20 miles of the Zuider Zee, forming a trap within the larger trap and threatening hourly to interdict the V-bomb coast from which the Nazis bombard England.

The British reached the Ems 45 miles northwest of Osnabrueck—a city where the main roads to Holland and north from the Ruhr converge. The American Ninth Army reached the Weser and imposed the threat to Hannover, tied to all north Germany by railroads. The Weser and Elbe are the last large streams on the high road to Berlin.

With the First Army, the Ninth compressed the annihilation pocket in the Ruhr to a perimeter of 190 miles. Field Marshal Albert Kesselring and up to 150,000 doomed German troops were reported caught in the encirclement. All German efforts to break the ring were frustrated.

58 Miles To Czech Border

The Ninth Army captured almost 13,000 Germans yesterday in its drive to the Weser along one of Hitler's superhighways. The bridge was blown. At one point the Ninth penetrated to within 170 miles of Berlin.

The Third Army fought down the last 58 miles toward Czechoslovakia and for the city of Gotha, 140 miles southwest of Berlin. The Germans said Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's troops had reached Arnstadt, 70 miles from Leipzig and 110 from the Czech city of Pilsen, where the great Skoda munitions works—Hitler's last major arsenal—are located. Arnstadt is 13 miles southeast of Gotha.

Nazis Shift Forces

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Fifth Armored Division reached the Weser at Bad Oeynhausen, 183 miles from Berlin, 57 south of Bremen and 103 southwest of Hamburg. A battalion of engineers rode along to bridge the river. The north German towns of Salzfuth, Dienenhe and Hohlinden were captured on the way.

The Germans said the Canadians had crossed the Waal Rhine, presumably at Arnheim, in a drive toward the Zuider Zee—less than 20 miles from Gen. Henry Crerar's vanguards.

(The Luxembourg radio asserted that German divisions were being shifted from the Russian to the disintegrating western front. The Ninth Army was said to have encountered the SS Viking Panzer Division, which arrived without tanks).

2 Get Promotions; Another A Badge

Clyde I. Harner, Littlestown, now serving with the Army in Germany has been promoted to private first class.

John Gilbert, husband of Mrs. Janice M. Gilbert, Biglerville, has been promoted to staff sergeant. He has participated with an engineer battalion in campaigns in France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Germany.

Pfc. Ira R. Lentz, son of Mrs. Grace Lentz, Orrtanna R. 1, has been awarded the Combat Infantryman's badge for excellent performance of duty in combat in northern France and Germany. He is a member of an armored division.

Sgt. Roy Millhimes Ends Furlough Here

Sgt. Roy S. Millhimes has returned to duty after spending a 45-day furlough at the home of his sister, Mrs. Ivan Breighner, Fourth street.

Sgt. Millhimes served 39 months in the Pacific Theatre of Operations where he participated in three major battles. He has received the Pearl Harbor campaign ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific campaign ribbon, and Good Conduct medal.

He was inducted July 12, 1941, and went overseas in October, 1941, after completing his basic training at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

PA SEIZES RED RATION STAMPS IN THIS DISTRICT

Harrisburg, April 4 (AP)—Walter Young, district OPA director, announced today seizure of 16,173 red ration points from slaughterers in the last few weeks in the county Harrisburg area. The OPA described the points as "the means a gigantic black market in meat." Young said that investigators, while checking all slaughterers of title in the area and auditing their accounts, found that total ration points remaining in their hands and not turned in to OPA for cancellation as required by regulations.

Seizures of points found in the hands of individuals and firms ranged from 172 to 2,588,445, he said. A breakdown of the collections by counties as given out by OPA:

1,191,819 Seized in County Adams county, 1,191,819; Cumberland, 712,938; Dauphin, 1,277,459; Franklin, 566,574; Juniata, 265,998; Lancaster, 3,484,112; Lebanon, 124,111; Mifflin, 70,701; Perry, 144,336; York, 8,335,397.

"Some people think black markets can there are mysterious sources of extra meat," Young said, "and at the meat so mysteriously better than disappears with equal mystery to unknown places, to which only people who know the 'high-signs' have access. This is not true. The meat that is sold without ration stamps and at above ceiling prices, comes through the same channels as all meat."

"The great injustice is that all lack market meat is over-ceiling price. The honest retailer cannot afford to buy it, and sell it at ceiling prices. That's why so many stores are out of meat."

Pvt. Howard Hankey Gets Purple Heart
(Special to The Times)

The 303rd Station Hospital, England—Wounded in the chest by a German mortar as he fought with his engineer unit near Echemnach, Luxembourg, Private Howard Hankey, 29, Gettysburg, Pa., is now recuperating at this United States Army station hospital in England. He has been awarded the Purple Heart.

His ward surgeon, Captain Irving Greenberg, of Atlanta, Georgia, said, Pvt. Hankey has responded well to treatment and is on the road to a good recovery.

It was while he was assisting his squad in carrying assault boats for a river crossing at the front that Pvt. Hankey received his injury.

"The infantry," he said, "was moving up so fast in its attack that I had to get the assault boats up to it for a river crossing into Germany. Jerry was zeroing in all types of fire power, but the operations were almost completed when shrapnel from a mortar caught me in the chest."

A farmer in civil life, Pvt. Hankey has served three years in the army. His mother, Mrs. Nora Hankey, lives in Gettysburg.

News Briefs

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The Navy has halved its May draft call, and may ask for still fewer men in June.

This will reduce overall Selective Service calls 12 per cent or more from the current rate of about 132,000 men a month. They had been scheduled to continue at that pace through June.

U. S. Ninth Army, Germany, April 4 (AP)—Field Marshal Albert Kesselring is believed trapped in the Ruhr pocket between the American First and Ninth Armies.

The marshal became supreme German commander in the west late last month, succeeding the deposed Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt. The pocket was estimated to contain from 120,000 to 150,000 Germans.

Harrisburg, April 4 (AP)—Representatives of Pennsylvania farm organizations urged the general assembly today to retain existing license fees on the sale of oleomargarine "to make the bread of this country buttered."

Calcutta, April 4 (AP)—Fifteenth Indian Corps patrols have advanced 42 miles south of their landing point on the west coast of Burma and entered Taungup, 65 miles west of the Irrawaddy river town of Prome and 185 northwest of Rangoon, the Southeast Asia Command announced today.

Rome, April 4 (AP)—German columns are struggling to escape from northern Yugoslavia before the Russians close the back door into Austria and the Allied Air Force in Italy is destroying more enemy transport than at any time since the drive north from Rome a year ago.

Altoona, Pa., April 4 (AP)—Eight mines, employing 1,465 men and producing 6,937 tons of soft coal daily, were shut down in central Pennsylvania today, the Solid Fuels Administration said. Of the 27 mines which were closed yesterday, only three were reported by the SFA to have continued shut second day.

Believe Jap Navy Dead Total 262,000

Washington, April 4 (AP)—OWI today estimated Japanese navy dead at 262,000 officers and men since Pearl Harbor.

This compares with total American naval casualties of 92,819, of whom 35,750 are dead.

And, contrasted with more than 3,000,000 men in this country's sea arm, the Office of War Information said Japan's present naval personnel afloat and ashore totals 850,000.

Because the Nipponese do not let life-saving interfere with other operations, OWI said it is conservative to estimate that 75 per cent of the crews of Japanese warships sunk meet death.

8 AAU BOXERS GAIN TITLES IN TOURNEY

Boston, April 4 (AP)—As the National A.A.U. boxing committeemen joyously hugged themselves over their most profitable tournament in many years, experienced critics of amateur fistcuffing today were hailing 1945's eight champions as the most capable crew crowned here since the 1928 Olympic year.

The two-night title competition ended with two of the championship bouts held by Indian youths from Oklahoma City, 118-pound Amos Alton and 128-pound Virgil Franklin.

Outstanding in the starting field of 83, hand-picked in 16 A.A.U. districts, from start to finish was Abe Lee, Chicago's 147-pound Chinese-American winner, who battered Bill Truett, a Philadelphia Negro stationed at the Quonset, R. I. Naval Air Station, for a three-round technical knockout in the championship round.

Receipts High
Other skillful new titlists were 112-pound Keith Hamilton, a 16-year-old New Orleans stripling, and middleweight Allan Faulkner, the slugging Buffalo Negro.

Sparkling in the tournament's unadulterated slugging seasons were Jetson Arnold, of Philadelphia, who won the 135-pound honors with a three-round technical knockout over James Wiley, of Columbus, O., light heavyweight Dick Nutt, of Alexandria, Va., and Charles Lester, the 237-pound Cleveland Negro, who gained the heavyweight honors.

Totals for the two-night tournament were 13,957 attendance and $27,673 in gross receipts, about its best in two decades.

All-Stars Win First Softball Game 14-3

The Gettysburg All-Stars softball team defeated the Gettysburg Mappers and Surveyors 14-3 in a game played Tuesday evening on the high school field. After Joe Hess hit a home run with two on base in the first inning, the All-Stars were never in danger.

The same teams will clash Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock on the high school field.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULERTON, JR.

New York, April 4 (AP)—Unanswered questions: . . . What became of that "big-name" coach who supposedly was hired for the Brooklyn Tigers shortly after they finished the season without Pete Cawthorn. . . . Prexy Tom Gallery's current reason for being interested in a merger with the Boston Yanks is: "We don't have a coach and they have a darn good one." . . . Was the football rules committee thinking about the overwhelming success of the "T" formation when it ruled out the elbow block? . . . A lot of coaches claim the success of quick-opening "T" plays depends on the "cloth block," which is just a polite name for momentary holding. It will be harder to do with the hands and arms close to the sides. . . . And who said spring was here—with football busting into the news already?

FIXING RESPONSIBILITY

Atop his column in the Salt Lake City Deseret News the other day, scribe Les Goates affixed a note: "The ideas set forth in the following editorial are presented as the opinions of the south high scribe and not necessarily those of the Deseret News sports editor." . . . The column was a guest job on high school baseball by Les' son, Bruce.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

The San Francisco Seals have given up hope of finding home space for visiting coast league ball clubs during the world security conference and will put up cots in the clubhouse so the players will have a place to sleep. . . . Yale's Red Rolfe reports the most frequent question asked during his tour to Army posts in Greenland and Bermuda was about Lou Gehrig. "I was pleased that Lou wasn't forgotten," says Red. . . . Umpire Charlie Berry's only regret about that same tour was that he missed the baseball writers' dinner for the first time in 15 years, and Leo Houch, Penn State boxing coach, added that he missed the intercollegiate mitt matches for the first time in 23 years. . . . When Dixie Walker, who just signed with the Dodgers for $18,000, came up from the Sally league to Jersey City in 1930, his salary was $500 a month.

SNAP JOB
Due to the shortage of blank cart-ridges in Australia, track meet starters have been using rat traps instead of pistols on the theory that the snap of the spring is almost as loud as the crack of a pistol. . . . Jack Lavelle probably would like to put traps in front of the sprinters who are always jumping the gun.

DETROIT WINGS GAIN STANLEY CUP FINALS
Detroit, April 4 (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, gaining the Stanley cup hockey finals for the second time since 1942 on a brilliant four-goal performance by veteran Carl Liscombe last night, meet the Toronto Maple Leafs here Friday night in the first battle for the famous 52-year-old trophy.

Liscombe's feat, which knocked the Boston Bruins out of the cup chase 5 to 3 before 14,508 fans, largest crowd ever to see a National league hockey game in Detroit, overshadowed the fast play of his teammates and some neat goal-tending by 18-year-old Harry Lumley. . . . In the cup finals, the Wings meet a team from which they won eight games in ten contests during the season, losing one and tying the other. Any overconfidence, however, is swept away by the facility with which the Leafs eliminated the champion Montreal Canadiens in their playoff series. Detroit beat the Canadiens only once in the entire season.

THREE PIRATE PLAYERS FACE DRAFT CALLS

By TED MEIER

New York, April 4 (AP)—The 1945 pennant hopes of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who finished second in the National League last season, were jolted yesterday. Catcher Hank Camelli was ordered up for induction April 13 while Third Baseman Bob Elliott and Southpaw Fred Ostermuller may also be called.

Elliott, one of the few Major leaguers to bat in more than 100 runs a year ago, was directed to report for three days' hospitalization for observation. Ostermuller, winner of 11 games in 1944 after leaving Brooklyn, learned his previous rejection was reversed by a review board in Washington. He may be called for induction at any time.

Other training camp items: St. Louis Cardinals—Pitcher Jack Creel, of Columbus, drew praise from Manager Billy Southworth. "He has everything he needs to be a winner in majors," Billy said.

St. Louis Browns—Gene Moore, whose pinch hitting proved valuable last year, got into first game and hit a double in two attempts.

Boston Red Sox—Jim Wilson and Red Barret were nominated to pitch against Yankees today.

Boston Braves—Rookie Dick Cullen seems to have beaten out Whitely Wietelmann for shortstop.

Chicago White Sox—Southpaw Thornton Lee, out with a cold, will miss Detroit game today.

Chicago Cubs—Sluggish Bill Nicholson, working at war plant in Chestertown, Md., said he would report on opening day.

New York Giants—Infielder Hugh Luby notified team he would take pre-induction physical examination in Oakland, Calif., on Thursday.

Cleveland Indians—Jim McDonnell was nominated to catch Allie Reynolds in opening game against White Sox in Cleveland, April 17.

Washington Senators — Dutch Leonard and Mickey Haefner, bearing down for first time, shutout Norfolk Naval Air team.

Philadelphia Phillies—Southpaw Ken Raffensperger pitched complete nine innings in blanking Bainbridge Naval team, 3-0, on four hits.

Brooklyn Dodgers—Ben Chapman was named to start against West Point Cadets in exhibition game today.

New York Yankees—Nick Etten, first sacker, got his first hit of year, an eighth-inning single against Red Sox.

Hershey Evens Ice Cup Playoff Series

Cleveland, April 4 (AP)—Hershey's Bears treated the Cleveland Barons to a dash of Damore cooler last night to even the American hockey league playoff finals at one game each as the series shifts to Choccolate Town.

Hershey's all-league goalie, Nick Damore, derailed Cleveland's powerful offense and the Bears won the second Calder cup game 5 to 3. The Barons copped the first tussle Saturday night.

Cleveland tried Damore with everything in the book—long ones and short ones, high shots and low shots, hooked and straight drives—but it availed them little. Nimble Nick was credited with 44 stops.

The Bears drew first blood when Harold Cooper converted on a long pass from Hymie Buller. Cleveland's first goal came some nine minutes later when Les Cunningham, after a long sprint, slid a pass to Lou Trudel who caged the puck.

WAR IN THE AMERICAN UNDERGROUND

The thousands of miles of petroleum pipelines are an American underground supporting the network pour millions of barrels of war-vital petroleum products.

To keep these supplies rolling to our fighting men, a silent war constantly is going on within the steel arteries of the underground.

Here the enemies are water and oxygen. Some infiltration by these saboteurs can't be avoided. Once in, they set to work . . . forming rust . . . corroding the pipes. Unchecked, this would mean a line operating far below efficiency . . . a fouled and dwindling petroleum stream.

Atlantic's fight with the corroding foes began with completion of first sections of its 820-mile Philadelphia-Pittsburgh-Buffalo pipeline in 1931.

From the strainers of a single pumping station, tons of rust were removed. But Atlantic maintenance men were hard at work developing scrapers . . . Atlantic researchers were rushing pilot plant experiments on a rust preventive.

Research came up with a sodium chromate solution that was a "solution" in both senses of the word. It is injected into the pipeline—1 pint per 19,000 gallons of petroleum products pumped. It does not affect petroleum quality. But it reduces corrosion so successfully that the scrapers now bring in only negligible amounts of rust.

Today, too, this rust preventive is combating corrosion in the "Little Big Inch" pipeline from Texas to New Jersey which began operation in January, 1944. As one of eleven oil companies managing and operating the "Little Big Inch" anti-rust process to this operation.

Hearing Tonight On Boosts For Teachers

Harrisburg, April 4 (AP) — The House Education committee expects 1,500 to 2,000 persons at a public hearing tonight on conflicting proposals to boost teachers salaries and state aid to schools.

Scores of requests prompted the review on measures carrying out recommendations of the Legislative School Commission on salaries and subsidies and a similar proposal backed by the Pennsylvania State Education association.

Chairman D. Raymond Sollenberger said opposition has developed to the commission plan to hike elementary teachers pay from $1,200 to $1,400 annually in first class districts, from $1,000 to $1,400 in second, third and fourth class districts with comparable increases for junior and senior high school instructors and principals.

He added that teachers want the salaries boosted higher as provided by the Education association bill sponsored by Reps. Fred P. Hare (R., Somerset) and Thomas H. Lee (R., Phila.).

There were only 32,920 automobiles registered in the United States in 1903.

WAR IN THE AMERICAN UNDERGROUND

The thousands of miles of petroleum pipelines are an American underground supporting the network pour millions of barrels of war-vital petroleum products.

To keep these supplies rolling to our fighting men, a silent war constantly is going on within the steel arteries of the underground.

Here the enemies are water and oxygen. Some infiltration by these saboteurs can't be avoided. Once in, they set to work . . . forming rust . . . corroding the pipes. Unchecked, this would mean a line operating far below efficiency . . . a fouled and dwindling petroleum stream.

Just Folks
SURIACHI

In the face of death they bore it to the rocky mountain top,
Yankee leathernecks whom neither flame nor fury's steel could stop.
Now, on Suriachi's crater floats
the Stars and Stripes today
And the boys on Iwo Jima tell the world it's there to stay!

It took character and courage; it took manhood at its best.
Friends were dying all around seeking
Suriachi's crest,
But the flag flies there this morning and the boys who raised it say:
Let there be no doubt about it, they have put it there to stay!

For the book of high tradition where are kept the deeds of men, Here's another stirring epic for some gifted writer's pen.
From one general's home epistle
here's a line you may have seen:
"I shall henceforth view with reverence
the United States Marine."

Today's Talk
BURIED TREASURER

This is not a talk about pirates who have buried their treasure in mysterious spots—perhaps never to be divulged, but a talk about the greatest treasure that a man could own—character.

It is by this that every man or woman is judged and catalogued. Character doesn't necessarily have to talk, or even to present itself before the world in expressed or enacted deeds. A fool can do this to a degree. Emerson brought out this fact in his essay on character when, in his opening paragraph, he said: "I have read that those who listened to Lord Chatham felt that there was something finer in the man than anything which he said."

Character is something buried within the heart. It may be silent, but it gives voice in a multitude of ways. It asserts courage, and often stands alone. It is a kind of security that cannot be matched with bonds, stocks or gold. It leaps from the eyes, plays about the mouth, and makes a road through every line of the face. It's what you actually are.

The elder J. P. Morgan once asserted that he would willingly loan a million dollars on it alone as security, while he would not risk such a loan against mere cash with one who did not have character. Indeed it must be buried treasure of the purest sort!

You know at once how to measure a man when you are told that he is a man of character. He is to be trusted. You can bank on him. You may even differ widely from his views or opinions, but you respect them. That is what character does. It's the badge of confidence.

In every phase of life character is asserted, from the humblest to the greatest. The poorest scrub woman may have greater character than a mighty queen! It's the treasure in the heart that makes all the difference in the world. When Emerson turned from the grave of Thoreau, he remarked: "He was a beautiful character."

We are born with the elements that go to make up a fine character. It's what we do with these elements that establishes the character we own, and which we wish most shall make us known in life—and thereafter.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "A Notable Life Story."

FARM VALUES UP

Harrisburg, April 4 (AP)—Pennsylvania farm real estate values jumped 11 per cent for the year ended March 1 to reach the highest point since the 1920 boom days. Secretary Miles Horst of agriculture reports. A seven per cent advance was recorded for the previous year.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Playground Gets Play Director:
Word has been received from Philip E. Brown, of Port Washington, New York, that he will accept the position as director of boys' play at the Kurtz Memorial Playground for the season of 1920. Mr. Brown is a licensed teacher of physical training in the Vacation Playgrounds of New York city and taught in the playgrounds of New York last summer.

Dubbs Re-Enlists Again: J. Winfield Dubbs, Gettysburg's most "seasoned" citizen has re-enlisted in the United States Navy for three more years in order to round out twenty years of service under Uncle Sam. At the present time Chief Boatswain Dubbs is on board the U.S.S. "Idaho," the largest dreadnaught in the Navy.

Barrel Factory Burned: Fire of unknown origin which for a time threatened to do very serious damage completely destroyed the barrel factory and stove mill of W. S. Adams located near his residence at Mount Tabor above Bendersville.

New Dentist Arrives: Dr. W. H. Danforth, of Chester, arrived in Gettysburg on Wednesday to assume the dentistry practice of Dr. George C. Cobean.

Dr. Cobean, who has practiced here for ten years, will go to Juniata, Blair county, where he intends to locate permanently.

Heller—Wierman: Melvin A. Heller, of Butler township, and Miss Phoebe H. Wierman, of Gardeners Station, were married Tuesday noon at the United Brethren parsonage by the Rev. W. R. Glen.

They will reside on the bridegroom's farm near Center Mills.

Move Here Thursday: The office force of District Six of the State Highway Department established their offices here on Thursday. They are located in the building on Baltimore street recently purchased by Allen B. Plank.

To Remodel Building: Work of remodeling the building at the corner of Washington and Chambersburg streets recently purchased by David Kendeheare has already been started. Mr. Kendeheare will install a modern billiard parlor on the first floor and convert the second story into apartments.

Silk Mill Wheels Start In Motion: Combined efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, The Times, and all other agencies which acted as boosters to secure an Eagle silk throwing plant for Gettysburg culminated Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock when the wheels of the factory were set in motion under the supervision of Arthur E. Jones, of Shamokin, superintendent of the local plant.

Only fifteen girls started in work when the plant began operation, but that number is only a handful to what the Eagle men expect to employ later.

Fifth Industry for Gettysburg: On the heels of the opening of Mendels Brothers Shirt factory, the American cigar plant, the Eagle silk mill and an announcement of an addition to the furniture factory, is issued a statement that Gettysburg is to have a canning factory.

Plans for the canning factory were definitely announced by J. I. Burgoon, Springs avenue, who was head of the hardware business at the Department store for ten years.

D. E. Yingling, a farmer from Silver Run, Maryland, is to be associated with Mr. Burgoon in the latest venture started in Gettysburg.

Seventeen acres of land northeast of the furniture factory along the Western Maryland railroad tracks have been purchased from the Martin Winters estate by Mr. Burgoon and Yingling.

Breaks Arm Fourth Time: While on his way out Washington street on Monday afternoon, Henry Bream, one of the leading athletes of the local institution, accidentally fell on the pavement, breaking his arm for the fourth time in less than two months.

Will Buy Tomatoes: In order to stimulate the planting of tomatoes for the 1920 season the firm of Burgoon and Yingling has offered to pay $20 a ton for tomatoes delivered to the factory.

Personal: Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fahrner, of Astoria, Long Island, announce the birth of a son.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McCrea Dickson were recent guests at the Mission Inn, Riverside, California.

Miss Anna Gilliland has returned to her home on Carlisle street after spending three months in St. Petersburg, Florida.

James Moore has returned to his home after spending three weeks with friends in Keyser, West Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Palmer, of Water street, announce the birth of a daughter on Sunday, March 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stock, of Pittsburgh, announce the birth of a son.

Miss Lily Dougherty and the Misses Weaver, of High street, went to Reading on Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ralph Weaver.

WILL TAKE YEAR TO GET CIVILIAN GOODS AFTER V-E

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The capital climbed back on the reconversion bandwagon today—the one that stalled in December at Germany's west wall.

Within a year after V-E Day, the war production board now predicts civilian goods will be coming out of factories at a clip reminiscent of 1939.

Every civilian product—including automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines and radios, missing for three years—will be back in production. And most will have reached the market, WPB Chairman J. A. Krug predicted last night.

Not overlooking the possibility that Japan might fold quickly after her Axis partner does, Krug declared:

"I think the government should get out of the war of industry on the day after that happens."

Slower Reconversion

Pressure on congress developed, meanwhile, for an immediate start on legislation to ease the postwar tax burden on business and thus encourage investments in expanded peacetime enterprises. This came in a unanimous resolution of the civilian advisory panel—representing labor, management, agriculture and the public—of the office of war mobilization and reconversion.

Reconversion will be slower-paced, at the start, than was planned last fall. Officials then spoke of days or weeks. Now it is months and quarter-years.

Krug cautioned in outlining WPB's reconversion program that the Japanese war would have first claim on the country's resources. He said it will impose a "tremendous strain on our productive capacity" and that many shortages will continue for months in clothing, leather, lumber, chemicals, and some other lines.

ELIMINATE ANTS IN LAWNS NOW

Early spring is the time to get rid of ants which may have infested the lawns, suggests E. J. Udine, extension insect specialist at the Pennsylvania state college. "It's a good policy to get them early, before their food supply becomes more abundant," he added.

One method of getting rid of ants regardless of kind, Udine said, is to use carbon bisulphide, which is highly inflammable and explosive if near open flames. By digging holes about 6 inches deep, about 6 inches apart around the ant-hills, carbon bisulphide can be applied at the rate of one teaspoonful in each hole.

The next step, he said, is to plug the hole with damp soil or moist sand. Placing a wet blanket, old linoleum, or weighted newspaper over the area, will cause the toxic fumes of the chemical to kill the ants. For ant infestations around flowers or similar plants, carbon bisulphide should be poured around the ant hills, after which the area should be covered with an inverted tub with its outer edges plugged with damp soil for a few days.

Mixing one ounce of paris green (poison) with a pound of brown sugar provides a simple poison, Udine said. This mixture should be spread thinly over 1,000 square feet of lawn. If well-mixed, this poison will kill the ants, but in cases of heavy infestations, the remedy may have to be repeated in about 10 days.

Caution must be exercised, regardless of which remedy is utilized, since one is extremely inflammable and the other poisonous, he warned.

LENGTHEN DAIRY ROTATION

Lengthening the dairy farm rotation to provide more and better pasture and hay will help improve the dairy farmer's situation in the post-war period when competition probably will be keener and prices lower, explains J. B. R. Dickey, extension agronomist at the Pennsylvania State college.

PLANT STRAWBERRIES EARLY

Set strawberry plants as soon as the soil is in condition, advises J. L. McCartney, fruit extension specialist at the Pennsylvania State college. It isn't necessary to wait until the danger of frost is past. More growers will be using their own plants since commercial stock is short.

SELECT BEST HEIFERS

Instead of raising heifer calves only from high producing cows, a sounder practice is to raise those from cow families that have proved ability for transmitting high production, urges R. R. Welch, extension dairy specialist at the Pennsylvania State college.

Invite And Protect Birds

At least 36 species of birds feed on codling moths (apple worms); 34 feed on potato beetles; 49 on horseflies; 175 on leafhoppers; 95 on white grubs; and 205 on wireworms. These are but a few of the practical measuring sticks by which farmers, orchardists and gardeners may judge the value of birds in reducing insect ravages.

Insecticides are still scarce this spring and it appears likely that gardeners and fruit growers who neglected to place their orders earlier may find their dealer's shelves bare when they try to buy emergency supplies when needs actually arrive. Perhaps in no former year in our country's history have birds been so urgently needed to help keep insects under control.

There are many things every citizen, urban as well as rural, can do to invite birds to nest and rear their young in and near gardens and orchards. Foremost, of course, they should make certain that the No. 1 enemy of birds is removed or curbed—the homeless cat. There are two direct ways to prevent cats from molesting birds—(1) Kill the offending animals; (2) Band tree trunks with smooth roofing metal to bar cats from reaching the nests or individual birds.

Birds Need Houses

Next, most birds need artificial houses. The destruction of forests and the adoption of the modern type fencing have eliminated the natural nesting homes of most birds. The emergency can be bridged by erecting suitable houses for the various species of birds desired. Houses for martins should be ready for occupancy before April 18; those for wrens even earlier. Trees should be banded to protect robins immediately. In fact, tree banding to bar cats should be a year-around practice.

Do not kill any species of owl, with the possible exception of the huge

STATE CERTIFIED SEED CORN NOW

With corn planting time just around the corner for Adams county farmers, they will be using for the first time Pennsylvania state certified hybrid seed.

Certification of such seed was authorized last June by Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture, with the result that the product of 416 acres of Pennsylvania-grown hybrid seed corn passed all field inspections and is available for this year.

Twelve varieties were certified this year, each of which has been approved for adaptability to Pennsylvania conditions by the Agricultural Experiment Station at the Pennsylvania State college.

The Bureau of Plant Industry reports that growers of commercial hybrid seed corn entered approximately 615 acres for inspection under state certification rules and regulations. Inspectors rejected 200 acres, chiefly because the fields were not sufficiently isolated from other types or because detasseling requirements were not met. The average yield of certified seed in the first year of this new State service was approximately 25 bushels of shelled seed corn per acre.

Hybrid seed corn cannot be sold as certified in Pennsylvania if the moisture content is over 14 per cent. Such seed must germinate 90 per cent or more and shows a purity of 99 per cent or better.

APPLE HOLDINGS ABOVE '44 LEVEL

Apple holdings in Pennsylvania cold storage houses on March 1 totaled 1,201,000 bushels compared with only 445,000 bushels a year earlier, the state Department of Agriculture reports.

Dairy and poultry holdings in Pennsylvania storage houses on the same date included: 4,546,000 pounds of creamery butter; 552,000 pounds of cream; 3,716,000 pounds of cheese; 11,000 cases of shell eggs; 4,201,000 pounds of frozen eggs; and 7,437,000 pounds of poultry.

Compared with February 1 holdings, stored apples were reduced about 380,000 bushels; butter was about 280,000 pounds more; cheese was about 100,000 pounds more; frozen eggs were down approximately 1,200,000 pounds, and poultry holdings were 680,000 pounds less.

NEED TESTERS

Pennsylvania leads all states in number of dairy herd improvement associations, with 118 now in operation, but this work presently faces a handicap through a lack of trained testers. Several new dairy herd improvement associations are ready to start functioning as soon as testers can be located and trained.

White Potato Shortage Looms

Harrisburg, April 4 (AP)—A scarcity of 1944 crop white potatoes predicted for this spring may still materialize in late April, the department of agriculture reported today.

Although federal surveys show Pennsylvania potato stocks on March 1, totaled 3,000,000 bushels compared with 2,000,000 the same date in 1943, the year of acute shortage, market men say the unseasonably warm weather is increasing sprouting, shrinking and softening of tubers in shipment.

Interesting News Of Upper Adams Countians And Their Enterprises

'CRITICAL' PERIOD FOR FRUIT HERE LASTS INTO MAY

Adams county's 1945 fruit crop will not be past the critical stage—as far as damage from late frosts or freezing weather is concerned—for a month or more, Adams County Farm Agent M. T. Hartman said today.

With county peach orchards passing the peak of their bloom, cherry orchards a mass of white and with apple orchards passing the "pink" stage with first central clusters of blossoms already open, fruitmen are in for some uneasy weeks as the fruit clusters form in a period when weather records show that frosts are not only possible but likely.

There's little comfort, too, in recalling another abnormally early spring that came to Adams county in 1921 during the warmest March on record. That year frosts and freezing temperatures came three times in April and the young fruit—in some orchards—apples had reached the size of small hickory nuts—turned black and dropped off.

Spray Work Rushing
But veteran county orchardists can remember when frost dangers passed without disaster and are inclined to the opinion now that "we have a good chance of coming through all right."

Meanwhile the orchardists are busy with a spray schedule that is almost a month ahead of the dates when the various applications are usually put on peach, apple and cherry orchards. The unusually warm weather of the last three to four weeks has rushed the spraying work with buds and leaves developing more rapidly than in most years thus shortening the spread between the various spray applications.

The exceptional spring weather has brought exceptional insect and disease control problems. Advice on how best to meet these conditions is sent to the fruitmen in periodic spray information letters from the county agent's office after consultation with fruit specialists at Pennsylvania State college.

SPRAY APPLE TREES

Orchardists are advised by extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State college to apply the first apple spray—dormant and delayed dormant—to kill scale insects, aphid eggs, red mite eggs, and to reduce early scab infection.

RETAIN CLOVER SEED

Nearly half of the 21,000 bushels of red clover seed grown last year by Pennsylvania farmers will be retained for sowing on their own farms this spring, according to a recent survey of the Federal-State Crop Reporting service.

Take Care of Chicks—Proper ventilation and temperature control are listed by John Vandervort, extension poultry specialist at the Pennsylvania State college, as the most important factors in a good brooder program.

State Now Ninth In Turkey Growing

Since 1939 Pennsylvania has risen from 16th to ninth place as a turkey-producing state, and in 1945 may improve its position still further with production estimated at 1,542,000—a quarter million more than the 1,285,000 raised in 1944.

Harry Kauffman, extension poultry specialist at the Pennsylvania State college, attributes Pennsylvania's improved position in turkey raising mainly to its climate, water supply, topography, and soil.

Other factors favoring this state as a turkey center include the availability of various fuels needed for brooding, a large variety of building materials for houses and turkey shelters, good pasture lands, much locally-produced grains, better-than-average freight services for transporting feed, and large consumer markets.

Fertilizer Will Speed Up Pastures

Farmers faced with a shortage of hay can speed early growth of bluegrass pasture for grazing purposes by applying fertilizer to a portion of their permanent pastures, reports County Agent M. T. Hartman. He suggests treating only part of the pasture to step up production.

Early spring application of either 500 pounds of 7-7-7 or about 400 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer per acre will not only prompt a much earlier growth of succulent pasture, but will also provide some permanent improvement to the treated areas, he explains.

Only that portion of the pasture to be used for extremely early grazing should be treated, allowing one acre to each four cows.

Kill Corn Borers—If farmers plow down or burn before May 1 all corn stalks and other refuse in which borers hibernate, they can reduce losses in 1945 from the European corn borer, say extension specialists.

SAYS ROTATION KEY TO PROFITS ON DAIRY FARM

Although there are many uncertain factors in the future, County Agent M. T. Hartman reminds Adams county dairy farmers that "one thing we can be pretty certain of" is keener competition and narrower margins of profit in the dairy industry.

Foresighted farmers, he said, are looking ahead for practical means of reducing their costs and at the same time, if possible, increasing production.

The county agent believes that on the majority of farms the greatest opportunities are among the lines of more adequate and better quality pasture throughout the summer, and a more abundant supply of hay of the best possible quality.

Pasture and Roughage

Pasture and roughage, Hartman explains, normally supply 75 to 80 per cent of the feed requirements of dairy animals, and that if the pasture and roughage were of higher quality and utilized in maximum quantity they could supply even higher percentage of dairy feed needs.

Grain production, he adds, is relatively much less important, and grain acreage may well be sacrificed in many cases to assure adequate forage.

In the normal four-year rotation of corn, oats, wheat and hay, grain occupies three-fourths of the acreage and hay only one-fourth. In view of the importance of hay, much better balanced production could be obtained, he points out, by substituting alfalfa (or perhaps in part Ladino clover and orchard grass) for the normal clover and timothy and mowing two or three years.

Double the Proteins

This would make a five or six-year rotation and would produce all the hay needed, and would at least double the protein production. Protein is the type of feed most needed. It would eliminate the necessity of feeding corn fodder, and by substituting all the alfalfa a cow would eat, the need for purchased protein supplements would be almost, if not entirely, eliminated.

Since such a six-year rotation would reduce the grain acreage and might produce too much hay and not enough grain, a suggested alternative, for the more level farms, would be to grow two years of corn and one year of small grain.

Probably half the second year of corn would go into the silo and be followed by wheat or winter barley. The remainder of the second-year corn ground would go into oats which also could be successfully seeded to alfalfa.

Time Saving Too

Where alfalfa is seeded in oats a reduced amount of an early oat, such as Vicland, should be sown on a well-prepared, firm seedbed.

There are many variations of this plan which may fit individual farms

HELP SHORTAGE CUTS ACREAGE

During the first three years of war, 1942-1944, Pennsylvania farmers made every effort to increase their spring plantings, but this year due to the acute scarcity of farm labor and farm machinery they have found it necessary to reduce acreage, the state Department of Agriculture announces in a survey by and farm needs, any of which would produce more and better hay and summer pasture, at the same time keep more of the land in erosion-resisting and soil improving crops.

These changes, Hartman adds, might also reduce the man hours of labor on the farm. In any case the foresighted farmer should study his rotation, make plans for its improvement and put the plans into execution before a critical situation arises.

the Federal-State Crop reporting service.

Compared with pre-war averages, farmers of Pennsylvania this year are planning to plant smaller acreages for all crops except corn, tobacco and soybeans. Intentions of farmers for this spring reveal that they will plant smaller acreage in spring wheat, oats, barley, and potatoes than in the 1934-1944 period.

The survey discloses that, compared with 1944, corn this year will be planted on 1,414,000 acres, one per cent less than was planted last year; spring wheat, 5,000 acres or 44 per cent less; oats 857,000 acres or one per cent more; barley 96,000 acres, a two per cent drop; potatoes 157,000 acres, a reduction of six per cent; tobacco 35,600 acres, an increase of five per cent; soybeans 98,000 acres, a drop of 18 per cent. Tame hay is to be harvested from 2,210,000 acres or one per cent below 1944 acreage.

Weather and labor conditions may change these estimates, observers say, for there is still doubt in the minds of many farmers as to the extent they can go this year with the crop acreages which they will be able to handle. Winter wheat, planted last fall, totals 950,000 acres or two per cent more than was seeded a year earlier.

ENNA BATTLE S HIGH SPOT IN WAR STAGE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

There is no more important development in the volcanic Hitlerian as this is written than news of Marshal Tolbukhin's Third Army is flinging itself into the outer defense line of the Red onslaught. That the battle for the Prussian capital—Nazidom's second city—is joined.

His fight for Austria—first counseled by Hitler in his campaign of "blitzkrieg"—is of vast moment for it is the back door to the Reich and imperils the Fuehrer's time for making a final stand in the Alps. But it's more than that. It is a political significance—question of sphere of influence—each will provide a further test of the strength of Big Three unity. The Nazis are reported to be reeling the Red onslaught fiercely. Use of you who remember Vienna's happier days, as I do, will help wish that this fine old city the bank of the mythically "blue" Danube be spared destruction. Still, the way the battle begins it seems her a forlorn hope that the ancient and attractive buildings of the city, and the famous Ringstrasse, will escape heavy damage.

However that may be, Vienna is wrested from the Boche. In order to understand the full meaning of this situation we must go back to the Moscow conference of the Big Three foreign ministers in 1943. At that time the basis for cooperation among Russia, Britain and America in Austria was laid. It was agreed that the independence of this country—an unwilling and helpless victim of aggression—should be restored. It was further agreed that American and British, as well as Russian, should participate in the liberation of Austria. And here enters the political aspect. There is a fundamental difference between the political situation expected to develop in Austria and that which exists in the Balkans, here views of Russia on the one hand and the western Allies on the other haven't always coincided, by considerable ways.

Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria have been recognized as spheres of special Russian interest. Austria, however, has been regarded by the western world as falling outside that category. This presumably accounts for the project of having the military forces of all three big powers cooperate in the liberation of Austria. However, the course of events has decreed that the Russians should be the first into Austria, and this gives special point to an editorial observation of the Washington Star no longer ago than January 5. Foreseeing the possibility that military fortunes likely would bring the Russians first into Austria, the Star commented: "Experience has shown that character of military occupation has inevitable political consequences no matter what diplomatic formulas have been drawn up to cover the situation." The Star added that Moscow's influence would have profound repercussions in Austria when the Nazi yoke has been broken by Soviet arms.

New Orleans, April 4 (AP)—Army engineers plugged gaps in the Mississippi's last line of flood defense Tuesday as tributary streams topped all-time crest records. The big stream itself was at flood stage or above from Iowa to the Gulf of Mexico—a 1,554 mile course.

Pittsburgh, April 4 (AP)—More than 30,000 miners were reported idle out of 100,000 employed in the Pennsylvania soft coal fields Tuesday despite extension for 3 days of the collective bargaining contract between the United Mine Workers and operators.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE

Twelfth Army Group Headquarters, (AP) — Three Kings look over the shoulder of Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley, who has come a long way from a central Missouri railroad center to direct the forward thrusting American armies in the battle of Germany, as he sits in his present headquarters.

They are plaster busts of the three last monarchs of Belgium, whose tiny but aggressively progressive country was liberated by troops fighting under this tall, lean Army group commander from the "show me" state.

At 52 years of age, Bradley is in the curious position of being perhaps America's most proven field general—yet he is relegated to a job that ordinarily ties him to a desk far from the battlefield where he would prefer to be.

Like A Country Doctor

In Tunisia and in Sicily, as a corps commander, Bradley demonstrated tactical talents not excelled by any subsequent combat leader. None who came after him has exceeded his masterful record—the "last roundup in northern Tunisia," the taking of Hill 609, the cracking of the German line at Troina in Sicily, the long, swift, hard march to Messina and the Normandy conquest.

But in the long term strategy of international war there are jobs even more important than those of corps or army commanders—and there are few men who have the talent to fill them. Good division commanders are rare, corps commanders are even more rare, army commanders are still scarcer—and fine group and overall commanders like Bradley and Montgomery are few indeed. They must plan strategic objectives weeks and months ahead and get able but temperamental subordinates to pull in harness together.

Bradley, who looks and acts like a kindly country doctor, happens to be doubly gifted. He is stern enough to drive and direct troops to victory in the white heat and agony of battle and he is diplomatic enough to channel the high abilities of highstrung army commanders to a common purpose and mutual goal. He is the nearest thing to Abraham Lincoln in uniform that the American Army has produced.

Unchanged by Success

He has the elemental qualities of goodness, good will, tact and shyness. With that farmboy simplicity goes shrewdness, judgement and a particular psychological insight one ordinarily doesn't connect with the professional soldier.

Bradley is the least changed man by success I have ever met. He leads the same quiet, semi-Spartan existence he did when he first went into the field in Tunisia.

Temporarily his surroundings border on the magnificent. This home-for-the-moment happens to be a splendid gold room in a palace with electric wall lights cupped in decorative Cupid's hands and soft-rugged floors, but he retains the same homely "old shoe" personality ingrained in him since birth. His old neighbors from Moberly, Mo., might stare a little at the furnishings but after ten minutes visiting with the general they would say with the same pride they have in another Missouri son—"Blackjack" Pershing—"well, he's the same old Omar."

Governor's Wife Falls Down Stairs

Indiantown Gap, Pa., April 4 (AP)

—Mrs. Edward Martin, wife of Governor Martin, was resting comfortably today at the post hospital after being injured in a fall last evening at the Indiantown Gap military reservation.

The 65-year-old First Lady of Pennsylvania was treated for mild concussion, lacerations of the scalp, and contusions of the chest and shoulders.

Mrs. Martin, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Mary Murphy, was inspecting a newly constructed home on the reservation. She had preceded her daughter up a flight of unfinished stairs when she struck her head on a loose board. In backing away she fell from the top stair and landed on the first floor, nine feet below.

Vote This Year On Election Officers

Harrisburg, April 4 (AP)—Election officers will be chosen throughout Pennsylvania at the fall election but will be appointed by the county courts for the 1946 general election. Governor Martin yesterday signed a stop-gap bill calling for appointment of election officers in even-numbered years until a constitutional change becomes effective providing for their election biennially.

The state election code calls for election officers to be chosen at odd-numbered municipal elections to serve for two years but the Dauphin county court ruled the constitution, itself, provides for annual elections.

Little improvement is reported in the condition of Harry Weikert, who has been seriously ill for some time. He recently underwent treatment at a Baltimore hospital and returned home last week.

Farm Calendar

Try Fertilizer on Clover—J. B. R. Dickey, extension agronomist at the Pennsylvania State college, suggests farmers use left-over fertilizer on a small strip of young clover or alfalfa as a means of getting additional experimental information on the response of clovers to spring applications of fertilizer.

Supply Own Lumber—Farmers in need of lumber for new buildings or repairs can save themselves money and release more commercially-produced materials for war uses by processing sawlogs from their own woodlots, say extension foresters at the Pennsylvania State college.

Fertilizer Tests Urged—Deep application of fertilizer, by means of a plow attachment, or by drilling or spreading before plowing, has enough merit to warrant additional demonstrations under certain conditions, suggests J. B. R. Dickey. If this work is done in cooperation with the county agent, findings can be made available to other farmers, he added.

Treat Seed Oats—Treating seed oats controls smut and reduces leaf blotch, points out R. S. Kirby, extension plant pathologist at the Pennsylvania State college, who recommends either formaldehyde or New Improved Ceresan for smut, but prefers the New Improved Ceresan for reducing leaf blotch.

Clean Up Gardens—Insects have come through the winter unscathed and soon will emerge to attack gardens unless controlled, reminds J. O. Pepper, extension entomologist at the Pennsylvania State college, who advises gardeners to plow down or burn all rubbish harboring these pests.

Build Creep for Lambs—Lambs develop faster if provided with a creep where they can feed on grain and hay away from the ewes, while they are still with the ewes, says W. B. Connell, extension livestock specialist at the Pennsylvania State college.

Plant Trees in April—Trees should be planted before the buds break, usually in April, reminds Walter W. Simonds, extension forester at the Pennsylvania State college.

It's a neat feat to navigate a windy corner with a pile of packages and keep skirts down to a modest level.

We're facing a somewhat similar problem during these stormy war years — carrying bigger power loads, higher costs, heavier taxes — and still keeping prices at low pre-war levels.

We're rather proud that the price of electricity hasn't gone up, like so many household necessities. In fact, the average family actually gets about twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 15 years ago. If your bill is about the same, or even a little more now, it's because you are using more labor saving electric appliances.

his "outstanding and meritori- ous service." Major Dunlevy at- tended Gettysburg college a number of years ago. Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commanding Gen- eral of the Third Service Com- mand, presented the award.

Governor Martin has issued the following statement: "The month of April has been designated as Cancer Control month to mobilize and strength- en the forces which are fighting an enemy that strikes at man- kind in wartime and in peace and takes thousands of lives each year.

"I, therefore, call upon all men and women of good will and all agencies of education and enlightenment to cooperate with the Pennsylvania Division American Cancer Society Field Army and to support in every way possible its campaign for the conservation of human lives."

CRISIS NEAR IN COAL CONTRACT NEGOTIATIONS

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Man- agement-union negotiators may de- cide today whether collective bar- gaining is likely to produce a new soft coal contract.

Although the War Labor Board gave the group a week—until Sat- urday—to reach a decision, observers felt it might come today. Should it be negative, the case would be taken over by WLB.

Operators and union officials clashed, meanwhile, over the extent of yesterday's mine shutdowns.

To Return to Work Vice President William Blizzard of District 17 of the United Mine Work- ers asserted in Charleston, W. Va., last night that reports of widespread idleness in the pits had been "in- spired in an attempt to keep the men from going back to work."

Operators figures showed that more than a score of coal mines were closed outright while absenteeism at others ranged from the usual amount in a few instances to as much as 50 per cent in some places.

SFA forecast yesterday that out- put would rise to 80 per cent today with full production tomorrow.

A member of the miners' ne- gotiating committee here attributed the idleness to delayed observance of a miners' holiday which fell on Sun- day, to slow delivery of Lewis' back- to-work telegrams and to some work- ers unwillingness to work without a new contract.

Shutdowns Reported "They will be back to work Wed- nesday," this committeeman said.

In his telegram Sunday John L. Lewis instructed his miners to con- tinue work through April under the contract extension ordered by WLB.

Mine shutdowns were reported in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ken- tucky, Alabama, Indiana, Virginia, Washington, Oregon and the Ar- kansas-eastern Oklahoma district.

In Ohio, Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Montan- a and the Chattanooga, Tenn. subdivision of District 17 operations were nearly normal.

Anthracite Sessions New York, April 4 (AP)—Anthra- cite producers, "disturbed" over the developing bituminous discussions in Washington, today begin negotia- tions here with the United Mine Workers, who are seeking a new two- year contract covering 72,000 work- ers of 190 companies in the eastern Pennsylvania hard coal fields.

Miners, who already have filed no- tice of an anthracite strike action under the Smith-Connally Act, will meet with operators in a special suite at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The National Labor Relations Board will take a strike vote of the miners on or about April 26. Their present contract expires April 30 and they have not indicated what new provisions they will seek.

Maj. William W. Inglis, president of the Glen Alden Coal company and chairman of the Operators' com- mittee, said yesterday that he saw no reason for a strike vote since no dispute could be considered as ex- isting pending the negotiations.

And then, suddenly, she realized her loneliness. Other people were to- gether, husbands and wives, families. They consoled and reassured each other that this wouldn't mean war. It would be settled somehow. There would be a way out as there had been before.

Now she knew what she wanted. She had to see Carey at the sacrifice of her pride and hear him tell her not to be afraid. They must be to- gether, now, like the Brandons, like all the people in the closed houses.

She stopped at a drug store to telephone but the instrument gave back no answer and her coin jingled in the box.

"Phone's off," the clerk said. He had a pimply face—poor advertise- ment for a drug store.

"Out of order?" "Cut off Radio, too. They've shut everything off."

But why? Why should radios and telephones be cut off when nothing had happened here. It was so very far to Pearl Harbor. Thousands of miles. An enemy couldn't possibly get here.

The streets were very dark. She turned the car into the Pass and it was a yawning black tunnel with even the car lights turning dull yellow as they approached. She changed her own to the dimmers, realizing that this was what other drivers had done.

She would find Carey and Vera and make them come home with her. They must all be together to- night. She said this over and over, bolstering her courage.

There were a great many cars at the beach, the people all looking at the Pacific, like Peter, as if they had never seen it before. Some of them went down to the water's edge and lingered there, kicking at pebbles and shells. In a dumb, defiant way they were trying to say that this was their water, their shore.

She saw people she knew and some of them were grave and anxious, barely nodding or not recognizing her at all, and some were talking vivaciously. "Isn't it frightful? They say we haven't a warship left—"

She stopped for gas and the at- tendant let the gauge overflow. He was a handsome boy with college written all over him but he was filling tanks for a living.

"I'll join the Navy, I think." His eyes were excited under wavy brown hair. "They'll want a new navy now."

"I don't believe it," Cynthia said. "It couldn't be that bad. Every- body's exaggerating. They don't know what really happened."

"Don't they?" The smell of wasted gasoline was overpowering.

She didn't go home. Something drove her on among strange faces. She was far up the highway when swift darkness caught and turned her back. It wasn't late but she noticed that the pier lights hadn't been turned on.

The streets were more free of cars and the houses looked dark and frightened sitting back among their palms with only a few lights snow- ing. She drove past her own and it was darkened, too, except for the dining room where Maud would be giving the children their supper. They were all right. They were safe, she told herself, but she couldn't go into them now. She couldn't bear their questions and poor old Maud's vaporing.

And then, suddenly, she realized her loneliness. Other people were to- gether, husbands and wives, families. They consoled and reassured each other that this wouldn't mean war. It would be settled somehow. There would be a way out as there had been before.

Second Marriage

Chapter 27 The familiar room was as it had always been, the trees, the flowers in winter borders set by Hamuri's careful hands. Nothing had hap- pened here because thousands of miles away ships were still burning and men had died trying to defend them. This was a world of peace, too far away to let its people be hurt.

The two thoughts were incom- patible, not to be brought together, ends that wouldn't meet.

Those three clung to her with their love and dependence and she had to be free to think. She left them pres- ently and went down hours during which the society's library and reading room in the basement of the court house are open have been extended considerably. Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, chairman of the committee in charge, said that greater interest in the use of the historical reference facilities of the library has caused a lengthening of the time during which the rooms will be open in the future.

Longer Hours for Reading Room

The new hours will be as follows: Monday and Wednesday afternoons from 3 to 5 o'clock; Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, and Saturday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. At least one member of the society will be in attendance during those times to assist with the finding of references or other matter.

Doctor Fortenbaugh also announced that the society has instituted a "question box" service to assist county residents with any questions they might have in regards to local history. Any such questions should be addressed to Doctor Stewart, in Gettysburg, or The Gettysburg Times. The question will be answered promptly by the society. Doctor Fortenbaugh said questions may concern any phase of county history.

GOES TO BRITAIN ON MONEY PROBE

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Does the Bretton Woods proposal for an international monetary fund mean "sound, hard money" or devaluation? That's the question posed by Rep. John C. Kunkel, (R-Pa.), and he's going to London to find out.

Kunkel, a Harrisburg, (Pa.), banker and a member of the House Banking and Currency committee which has been holding hearings on Bretton Woods proposals, announced his opposition to the monetary fund it proposes because "it means all things to all people."

"In the United States," he said recently in a radio address, "Dr. Harry White of the Treasury Department is attempting to sell it (the monetary fund) to our people on the theory that it means sound, hard money, x x x On the other hand, in England, Lord Keynes is selling it to the British on the theory that it permits devaluation—that it permits bilateral agreements between Great Britain and the Dominions—just the kind of thing which the purposes of the fund seek to eliminate."

"If we do not agree in advance on what this fund really means, all we are doing is creating trouble in the future. We are just laying the foundation for future warfare."

After announcement of Kunkel's arrival in London Monday broke the secrecy surrounding his trip, the one person whom his office here could identify among the British officials Kunkel intends visiting is Lord Keynes.

won't have the tension of battle to help them forget all else.

So the army has arranged what it described as an "educational and recreational program." Directing that program is Major General Frederick H. Osborn, the army's specialist on education and morale.

The men will be able to take their pick of education university subjects, trade schools, historical courses, mathematics. All will be required to study something.

If the G.I. wants to travel, that too will be arranged. Tours already mapped are intended to show the soldier a deal more of the Europe he has been fighting in than what he saw from a foxhole.

Different in the Navy

Does he want recreation? (In the Army they don't always ask you—they usually tell you.) Tons of sports equipment—football, baseball, basketball—are stockpiled for shipment to Europe.

The Navy's situation is different and better. It set up its principal place of business in the Pacific at the start. Generally, it has no worry about its men losing their fighting edge. The naval war in the Pacific moves on in rising tempo, nor is this pitch expected to diminish while the land army is being redeployed.

The psychology of the fighting man is only half the picture. The other half, here on the home front, may very well pose the more difficult problem.

War leaders see home front morale as composed of two elements, the attitude of parents, wives and sweethearts, and the attitude of war plant workers.

Effect on War Production

With the approach of victory in Europe, the Army began hearing things like this: "My boy has been overseas two years. Let someone else carry on in that war way out there in the Pacific. I need him to help out down here on the farm."

The Army thinks those are good sound arguments. It has announced it intends to do what it can about them. Soldiers will be discharged, but not now, nor all at once, nor until after most of them have seen service in the Pacific.

Of equal concern to the high command is the psychology of the war plant worker and his boss. Military leaders say that if the management-worker team should decide the war effort no longer needs its full service, there would be no use in the Army's redeploying its fighting men in the Pacific. The war would indeed be over before victory—a Japanese victory.

These leaders want the home front to feel what President Roosevelt has said: "America must be prepared for a long and costly struggle in the Pacific."

(Tomorrow: History's biggest moving job.)

6 Convicts Sought In Three States

Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey state troopers patrolled all roads today in the search for six long-term convicts still at large after their spectacular escape with six others from Eastern State Penitentiary yesterday.

Two hundred and seven radio-equipped police cars were thrown into the manhunt. Two of the fugitives were being sought in a five-square-mile triangle of woodland near Harmony, Del.

Searching for the other four convicts were 2,500 Philadelphia detectives and policemen, 1,200 of them on extra duty.

The 12 men made their bid for freedom by crawling through a 96-foot tunnel which emerged outside the prison wall almost directly under a wall-top guard tower.

Poor Digestion? Headachy? Sour or Upset? Tired-Listless?

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice, Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 25c.
